

Innovation in cancer care is stalling.

An oncologist can help hundreds of patients.
A clinical trial can reach thousands.
But a groundbreaking idea, if commercialized, can change cancer care for generations to come.

Alberta is brimming with brilliant researchers and clinicians developing game-changing ideas. Yet too many of these breakthroughs never make it beyond the lab, trapped by a lack of funding and resources. For those facing cancer, every second counts, and we need solutions that are equally responsive.

By harnessing Alberta's bold, entrepreneurial spirit, we can accelerate innovation, break down barriers and address critical needs for Albertans facing cancer faster than ever before.

Be the catalyst for breakthroughs.

Bringing an idea to market is hard. We want to make it easier for those transforming cancer care.

Cancer innovation is happening right here in Alberta. The Alberta Cancer Foundation's Breakthrough Fund is your chance to accelerate it and play a critical role in creating a cancer-free future.

By connecting visionary donors and forward-thinking companies focused on cancer, we can close the gap between research and real-world impact — fast-tracking novel therapeutics, cutting-edge diagnostics, revolutionary medical devices and next-generation treatments.

This isn't just about funding science. It's about fueling solutions that will lead to earlier diagnoses, better treatments and improved survivorship for the more than 24,000 Albertans diagnosed each year.

Together, we can bring life-saving breakthroughs to Alberta sooner and shape cancer care, now and for future generations.
